

Basil B. Seggos, Esq., J.D. '01

Basil Seggos is the Assistant Secretary for the Environment for the State of New York. In this capacity, he serves as environmental policy advisor to Governor Cuomo and oversees the operations of several environmental commissions and agencies, including the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, the Office of Parks Recreation & Historic Preservation, the Adirondack Park Agency and the Environmental Facilities Corporation.

Basil previously served as Vice President of Business Development at Hugo Neu Corporation, a private equity company focused on building and managing clean-tech businesses. Basil also served as the Hudson Riverkeeper's Chief Investigator and Attorney, during which time he directed the Hudson River Program, managed hundreds of pollution litigations and advocated for stronger local, state, and federal environmental policies. Basil also focused on urban environmental issues as a program associate at the Natural Resources Defense Council in New York City.

Basil earned his Juris Doctor and Environmental Law Certificate from Pace Law School in 2001. During law school, Basil served as an environmental law clerk with the White House Council on Environmental Quality and as a student attorney with the Pace Environmental Litigation Clinic.

In addition to fulfilling his duties as Assistant Secretary for the Environment, Basil is also currently serving as a Lieutenant in the Judge Advocate General Corps, U.S. Army Reserve. Basil lives with his wife and three daughters outside of Albany.
